PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

"The 1980 Australian Titles here in Adelaide herald the completion of one era and the commencement of another — a completion because at last every Australian State and Territory is now affiliated with the A.W.S.A. and competing for the honour of being Australian Champions, and a commencement because such truly Australia-wide competition must lead to an overall uplift in standards and interest which should bring about an unprecedented boom in women's soccer.

The fledgling South Australian Association, after creating a tremendous "first up" impression on the titles in Darwin last year, are to be congratulated for the enthusiasm which has led to their staging this year's Titles.

As it is not possible for the high hopes of EVERY competitor to be realised, I hope instead that they enjoy to the full the companionship and keen sporting rivalry of our 7th National Championships."

With every best wish for a successful carnival.

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN WELCOME

The South Australian Women's Soccer Association are very proud to host the National Championships this year in Adelaide. We extend a very warm welcome to all our visiting players and officials.

Once again the opportunity has come for the best players in the nation to display their talents. The Championships will also mean a boost for Women's Soccer here and hopefully next season will see more players attracted to the code. As our Association is relatively new it has not been an easy task to organise these Championships, but our thanks go to all the people who have provided support from all levels of soccer. The S.A. Amateur Soccer Referee's Association, as well as some visiting referees, will provide the officials for the Championships. Our thanks to them.

This year is the seventh year of the National Championships and we extend a very special welcome to the Australian Capital Territory and Tasmania, who are participating for the first time. We believe that North Queensland will enter next year.

The increase in competing teams at State level is very encouraging and the Registrar's report at the Annual General Meeting should be interesting. FROM THE 1890's TO THE 1980's

At the turn of the century in England there were many women's soccer teams, the most famous being The Amazons. Yet women's football in Britain and Europe came to an abrupt end in the early 1920's, not to re-emerge until the 1940's. In England, part of the answer lies in the Football Association ruling in 1921 which banned women from playing organised football. This ban was lifted in January 1970. Women could play on F.A. pitches and have registered referees to officiate.

Women's football in England was already organising itself before the F.A. ban was lifted. In 1969, the Women's Football Association (W.F.A.) was founded, largely on the upsurge of interest generated when English men won the World Cup in 1966. The W.F.A. began with a membership of 44 clubs and by 1972, it governed 300 clubs and over 20 Leagues.

In 1972 a joint F.A. and W.F.A. Committee agreed upon the following:—

A policy of conformity with the rules and laws of men's football.

Control of women's football to rest with the W.F.A.

Full recognition and support of the W.F.A.

It is only the lack of finance which prevents England from seeking competition further afield than Europe. Club sides have already toured North America, Hong Kong, Thailand, Taiwan and India.

HONEST PROFESSIONAL ADVICE GIVEN

SOCCER FEVER U.S. STYLE!

Cathie Currie, director of a girls' soccer programme, concluded an enthusiastic discussion with an official of the New York City Public School Athletic League by asking him if any of the girls in his school were interested in playing soccer. "He replied, 'No, thank God we haven't had that problem yet', and he never understood that what he said was offensive", recalled Currie, who has spent the past two years developing soccer teams for New York City girls.

Soccer has become the fastest-growing team sport for girls and women in the United States, with an estimated 1 million girls and 10,000 women playing in 1979 compared to almost none 10 years ago. In July, 1978, when Currie was appointed coach of the girls' soccer team for New York City's Empire State Games, there was no team in existence. With a great deal of difficulty, Currie found 16 girls who had at least kicked a soccer ball before and took the team to Syracuse for a competition. "We lost every match."

The day that Currie returned from Syracuse she began to organize the girls' programme. There are now between 200 and 250 girls playing on teams, and Currie feels there is almost no limit to the number of teams that could be formed in New York City if she weren't restricted by lack of funds, coaches, and fields.

Football... au féminin

Although women's soccer in England was already in full swing by the 1890's, football in France only really started to get under way at the end of the First World War.

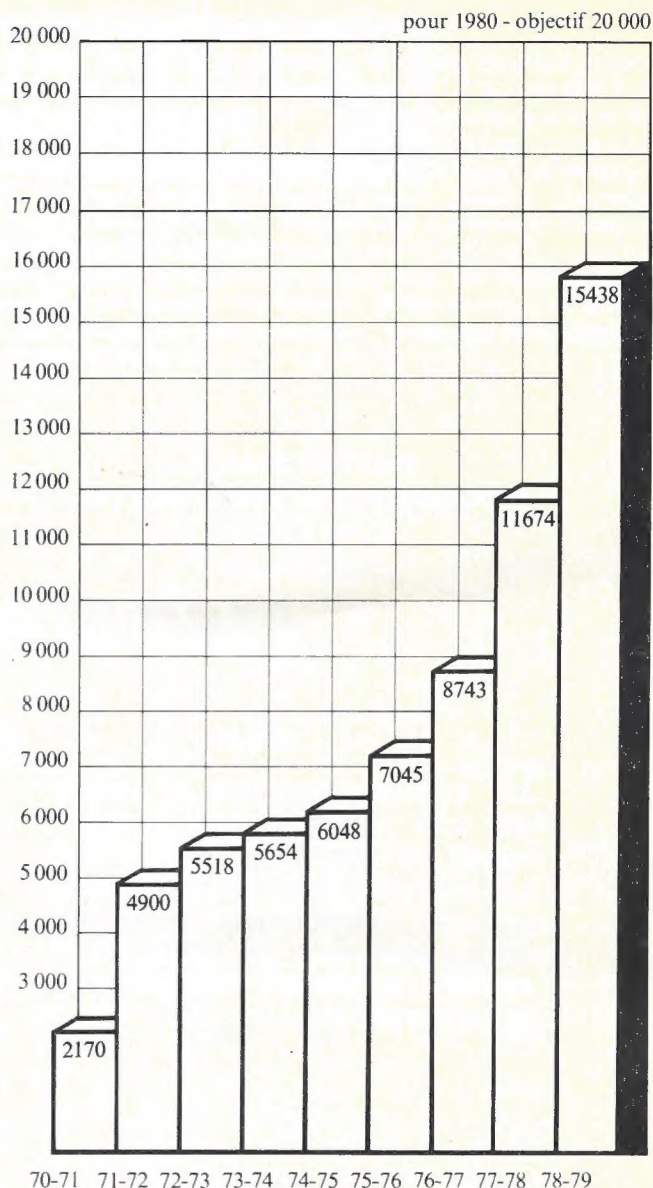

In May 1920 the French national side made its way across the Channel to play a series of matches against the "old enemy", Results:

Preston	Lost 0-2
Stockport	Lost 2-5
Manchester	Drew 1-1
London	Won 2-1

Later that year in Paris, France and England fought out a 1-1 draw. Again the following year the French visited England winning 3 of their 4 games. In 1922 the Sportives of Paris took out the first French Women's Cup beating Rude Sportive 5-0 in the Final.

But then sadly women's soccer began to decline and it was to be over 40 years before women once again took to the park. That was in Alsace in 1968 and a tournament arranged soon thereafter in Rheims was to prove the launching pad for the rebirth of the women's game. By 1974 16 regional club sides, Champions of their regional leagues took part in the first National French Women's Championships. This had increased to 20 by 76 and last year 48 regional championship sides started the long march to attempt to secure the National Titles. The most successful side is Stade de Rheims, one of the founder members of the reconstituted women's body which has played in all five finals winning the first 3.

In many respects women's soccer in Australia is similar to that in France in that players are amateurs. France has a National side which took part in the European Championships in Italy in July 79. After a 3-1 defeat by Denmark, their only defeat of the season, they drew 0-0 with Scotland and went out of the competition. Earlier in the season they had beaten Wales and Belgium and drawn with Eire. The victory against Belgium was particularly impressive as they, like England, West Germany and Italy include several professional players in their line up.

...a la Dutch

Women began playing soccer in the Netherlands about 10 years ago and for the last eight years or so, organised competitions have been held. There are no separate women's clubs but women's teams exist as part of soccer or sporting clubs. At the moment there are between 750 to 1000 Dutch clubs with affiliated women's teams.

Clubs are divided into the 11 Regional Associations which make up Dutch Women's soccer. Each Association has 4 Divisions with 10-12 teams per division and at the end of the season the First Division Champions from each Association play a mini league then knock out tournament to decide the Dutch Championship. There is also a Dutch Cup, a knock out competition open to all clubs. Last year the S.V. Brakuizen side won both the Dutch Championship and K.O. Cup trophies.

As well as the club competitions the top players from the clubs also play for their Association in representative competition. This gives the players the chance to impress selectors for the National side. Holland's national side took part in the European Championships in Italy in July 79. It has also had two victories over the French side winning 1-0 in May, 75 and 2-0 in November the same year.

Unlike Australian Soccer, the average age in Holland is about 23 and the game, although of about equal standard, is played far fiercer and rougher than here.

SOCCER ON THE MOVE

In Europe women's soccer comes under the umbrella of the men's National Associations. England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales have separate organisations but are still answerable to the men's organisation. Both F.I.F.A. and U.E.F.A. recognised women's soccer in 1971. The U.E.F.A. Committee met this year for the first time in seven years to consider the future of women's soccer in Europe. They dismissed the idea of a European Club Cup Competition but are considering a European National Team Competition. Their findings will go to the main U.E.F.A. Committee for a final decision.

National Women's Teams from England, Scotland, Wales, Northern Ireland, Holland, France, Sweden, Denmark, Finland and Switzerland competed in the host country of Italy in July 1979. The competition was witness to one of the finest exhibitions of women's football ever seen in Europe when Denmark defeated Italy in the final, 2-0.

Patricia Gregory, Secretary of the W.F.A., feels the future chances of a Women's World Cup for soccer will not eventuate until F.I.F.A. see the need for one and are willing to come up with the finance. If the numbers of women playing increase at the rate of the last few years F.I.F.A. may feel the pressure getting stronger. It has also been suggested to F.I.F.A. and the I.O.C. that women's soccer be included in the next Olympics.

THE AUSTRALIAN WOMEN'S SOCCER ASSOCIATION

The Australian Women's Soccer Association was founded in Sydney in August 1974, when the first ever National State Championships were held. State teams present were N.S.W., Queensland, Victoria, Western Australia and Northern N.S.W. In 1975 The Northern Territory joined and in 1979 South Australia participated for the first time.

1980 marks the seventh year of the Championships and for the first time all States and Territories are competing. The inclusion of Tasmania and the Australian Capital Territory makes the competition all — Australian.

Australian Women's Soccer has come a long way since Pat O'Connor, then of New South Wales, wrote a circular to all States inviting them to the first National State Championships.

Adelaide, 1980, will mark the establishment of the Medibank Trophy for the ultimate prize, the winner of the National Championship.

New South Wales will be the venue for the eighth Championships to be held in 1981.

DONATES THE NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP TROPHY

Medibank Private is pleased to be able to provide the perpetual trophy for the annual National Championships for Women's Soccer.

"As Australia's only nation-wide health fund it seemed appropriate that we should be associated with a national championship", said Mr. Gavan Kelly, South Australian Manager of Medibank Private.

Medibank Private has donated this trophy as a recognition of the importance of sport within the community and additionally to support the involvement of women's sports in national competition.

As a private health fund, Medibank Private does not see its role solely as paying benefits and collecting contributions, but also as being part of the community promoting health and well-being.

"Any encouragement we can give to healthy community activities such as women's soccer is in our opinion a good thing," Mr. Kelly said.

Medibank Private is proud to be involved with women's sport through the donation of this National Championship Trophy.

We at Medibank Private wish the organisers and the State teams competing, a very successful National Championship Series.

AUSTRALIAN INTERNATIONALS

Australian Women's Soccer made their International debut at the World Women's Soccer tournament in 1978, in Taiwan. It was a disappointing tournament for the Australian team as they failed to make the first six after a play-off with club sides from Sweden, Austria and a U.S.A. Under 19 team. Thirteen teams participated in the Tournament and Australia finished 8th. An impressive display of football was exhibited by club sides from France and Finland in the final, both teams coming equal first. As a further advance in Women's International Soccer, it was decided at this Tournament that only National sides should compete in the future.

NORTHERN NEW SOUTH WALES

The Northern N.S.W. history dates back six years when the Macquarie and Districts Women's Soccer Association represented the area at the 1974 National Championships, in Sydney. Mr. Kevin White was the founding father and guiding force of the Association for many years.

Currently, women's soccer in Northern N.S.W. is comprised of teams from the Central Coast Association, Macquarie and Districts, Namoi Valley Association, Armidale University Association and the Far North Coast. Macquarie is the strongest Association catering for U/12's, U/14's, U/16's and four divisions of eight teams of all age players. Central Coast is the second largest Association and Far North Coast follows. This Association hosts an annual carnival on the Queen's Birthday weekend at Lismore for all Northern N.S.W. players.

The N.S.W. State Association was formed in 1974 and that Association staged the first National Championships in Sydney the same year. During the running of the Championships the A.W.S.A. was formed and the first A.G.M. held.

1974 gave N.S.W. its first taste of international club football when three Club sides arrived from Auckland, New Zealand, to play a round robin with three top Sydney sides. Easy winners were the St. George side, winning all their 5 matches with 50 goals for and 2 against. Blacktown Spurs were runners up.

In 1975 two Sydney Club sides — Blacktown Spurs and Ingleburn R.S.L., travelled to Auckland to participate in a similar competition to 1974. Ingleburn were outright winners and Blacktown runners up.

1975 was the year when Australian women spread their wings to field a Club side in the first Asian Cup, held in Hong Kong. The team had two good wins beating Singapore 3-0 and Malaysia 5-0. They lost to New Zealand 3-2 and to Thailand 3-2.

In 1977 the N.S.W. Association commenced an Open Age Metropolitan Inter District Rep. Competition. The same year it renamed itself the N.S.W. Women's Amateur Soccer Federation. In 1980 three new competitions were added to the fixture list; an under 14 metropolitan Inter district rep. competition, a N.S.W. State Championship for all Metropolitan and Country Associations (won by the Kurringai Rep. side) and a Champion of Champions Competition for the top club team in each Country and Metropolitan Association. The latter will be held in September, 1980.

The Federation now has 13 affiliated Metropolitan and Country Associations, 159 affiliated clubs, 276 teams and 3,693 players. N.S.W. is the most successful State team in the National State Championships, with four victories in 1974, 76, 77 and 79.

NORTHERN TERRITORY (N.T.W.S.A.)

SECRETARY: Rosemary Vicker,
P.O. Box 37088,
WINNELLIE 5789 Northern Territory.

The Northern Territory Women's Soccer Association is now six years old and during this time the game and the administration has developed into a strong association.

The founders of Women's soccer in Darwin were Ann and John Cameriao, Maddie McIntosh and Kay Hoffman. The Association was then called the Darwin Women's Association. This association first started in 1975 just after Cyclone Tracey shook us all up. When the people started returning to Darwin and sport activities returned to some sort of normalcy, Don De Rosa and Klaus Boomjack from the Men's Association assisted the women to get going again. We then only had three teams in the competition and we were not taking the game too seriously. However, we then received an invitation from the Australian Women's Soccer Association inviting Darwin to compete in the Australian Women's National Championships to be held that year in Queensland. Darwin was to represent the Territory as it was the only Territory centre playing Women's Soccer. The Committee jumped at the chance of competing on a National basis as this was the only way we could improve our standard of play. All arrangements were made and our first representative squad went to Queensland. We were beaten in every game we played in but we did not mind as all of the players had only played three to five weeks of soccer in their life.

The committee and all women interested in Women's soccer are grateful to these three women, Maddie (Auntie Maddie to most of us) Ann and Kay for entering us in that first competition in 1975.

Since that time most of the Southern States have used the Territory team as a percentage booster but we have learnt a lot in six years and now have better coaches willing to learn more about the game for our sakes. They are continually giving their time and effort in an endeavour to make us a better team and their spirit and enthusiasm is to be fully appreciated. Mr. Jim Selby and his wife Connie are a great source of help and inspiration and we can benefit greatly from their knowledge of the game.

The South Queensland Women's Soccer Association was formed in 1975 after a team had gone to Sydney to compete in the 1974 inaugural National Championships in Sydney. Since then the game has grown considerably and there are currently 32 senior teams in 4 divisions and 12 junior teams in 2 Divisions in the Queensland Association. As well, the Association is also trying to develop its own headquarters at Geebung. Because of the size of the State, organisation has centred on the Southern area but growth in Northern Queensland will mean either a composite or perhaps two separate Queensland teams competing in Sydney next year.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA (S.A.W.S.A.)

SECRETARY: Noel McGuinness,

ELIZABETH VALE 5112 S.A.
Telephone: (08) 255-8204

Colours: Red Shirt, Blue and Gold Sleeves, Red Shorts and Blue and Gold Stripes.

The South Australian Women's Soccer Association was formed in February 1978 and after a series of meetings by an elected steering committee, a proper committee was elected on 17th April, 1978. There were seven clubs supplying eight teams. As the matches got under way interest grew to such an extent that another division had to be set up to accommodate these extra players. It was decided that the fixture list for these extra five teams could be re-arranged at any time to allow for new teams coming in or some dropping out. The eight teams formed a league, but a Championship was not viable at the time. Some teams had several years experience over others, making any Championship too uneven. Two teams did drop out from the second team league but we finished the season with thirteen teams.

Our President in 1978, Mr. Bob Bush, travelled to Newcastle for the A.G.M. of the Australian Women's Soccer Association and our State was formally accepted as an affiliated member of A.W.S.A. Our application to host the Championships in 1980 was accepted and from then every effort was put into preparing the team to travel to Darwin for the 1979 Championships, where we finished a creditable fourth.

The 1979 season saw us increase our number of clubs to nineteen with 370 registered players. We had immediate problems with our placement of teams in the two divisions into which we had divided the Association. There were quite a few unknown factors involved with the new teams who had affiliated and as it turned out the competition between teams in both divisions was very unfair. After playing five rounds, the structural set up of the leagues was changed and the Association was split into three divisions with teams being placed according to their results of the five rounds played earlier. This decision did not please everyone but overall it did prove to be a success.

During the season we played some games as curtain raisers to Phillips League games and at the end of the season we played the Coca Cola Challenge Cup Final as a curtain raiser before the Escort Cup Final between Adelaide City and West Adelaide. This game was due to be played before the Phillips League Cup Final, the show piece game in Australian Soccer, but unfortunately the weather reduced the condition of the pitch to such a state that we were not able to play on it prior to the main game. The season concluded when the Victorian champions, Greensborough visited Adelaide in very hot conditions and played our first division champions, Adelaide College, for the Challenge Cup. Our team was successful 2-1.

This season has seen another rise in the number of teams to 24 teams with 412 registered players at the time of publication of this programme. Allowing for the fact that three clubs dropped out at the end of the 1979 season, this shows another healthy increase in interest in Women's Soccer. Once again we have had to re-arrange the teams into three divisions after five rounds of competition and hopefully this will be the last season such re-organisation is needed. Because of the dramatic rise in standards this season, our State squad contains quite a few new faces compared to that which travelled to Darwin and they are looking forward to even better results than we had last year.

The Victorian Women's Soccer Association was formed in 1974 and a team took part in the first National Championships in Sydney finishing last. Since then, however, the standard has improved and Victoria finished runners up in 1976 and again in 1979, this time on goal difference.

There are 16 affiliated clubs and a few that are in the throes of becoming affiliated. The number of registered players is 287 to date, and hopefully, next year, we will top the 300 mark for the first time. Soccer is taking a while to progress in Victoria, as Aussie Rules holds a big place here, (unfortunately). We run as 2 Divisions with 8 teams in each. The standard of our soccer is uneven, falling roughly into 3 groups and hopefully next year with more clubs coming in we will be able to group them better.

Being a small Association, we have to play as an open-age sport; in fact my daughter and myself play alongside each other as does another mother and daughter in the same side. I wonder if she can get cautioned for calling out 'Mum' on the field!
